Subject: Construction and operation of the 3 new regional production centers in Sherbrooke, Trois-Rivières and Saguenay)

In 2009 and in 2010, CBC/Radio-Canada proudly put into service three new regional production centers that are aimed at better reflecting the regional reality and cultural aspects. These new centers now integrate together the operations of Radio, Television and Web Broadcasting, and use many new workflows.

During this evening, we will present the major elements that marked the implementation of the new stations. We will describe various workflows and we will give a living snapshot of the constraints and methods that had to be integrated. More than 50 distinct systems were integrated, in a rapidly changing technological context.

We will show you some video sequences to better illustrate the stations. Moreover, some participants to the projects will be available to answer your questions and a discussion panel will share their experience with you.

We would be glad to see you amongst us for the Happy Hour from 6PM to 7 PM and for this presentation.
